Misses Lucy Faust, Annie Ross, Louise Simons and Lottie Vockroth gave a clever exhibition of club swinging. The recitations of Miss Besgie Slote were of the same goodly kind that has won the little miss an enviable reputation within a few months. Miss Margaret Gibbs played the plano accompaniment.

Francis Roberts prettily sang "The Tea Party." The Apollo Banjo club then gave a number. Jessie Florey, a pleasing reciter, gave "Dottle's Letter" and Arthur Reese played the gultar. Nettle Lewis in a captivating way recited and Miss Slote gave some dramatte poses. Emma Lamb spoke "The Freekled Cirl," a selection by the banto lub and this feast of good things was ended with remarks by A. E. Vorhis, of The Tribune. The dance that followed ed.
